Greetings from Tucson!

Announcing the Post-Superior Galleries Auction Mineral Auction!

As is normal for most auctions, there are usually items that don't meet their reserve price and return unsold. I've had an overwhelming number of requests for a listing of these items from those who missed out on the live event because they were in Tucson, and others who simply missed out on the auction altogether. This week, while waiting for the main show to open, I compiled the entire group of unsold auction specimens and placed them into three new post-auction mineral rooms!

In keeping with the spirit of the auction process, I've listed each specimen with its regular retail price and the very low auction reserve level. There's also a "Make An Offer" option under each specimen but since this is a second chance auction event, items could sell quickly. You may want to consider making an offer at or just above the reserve price level to increase your chances of being the winning offer maker. Keep in mind that the best offer will win out if more than one is received on the same specimen.

This is a rare second chance to add some incredible mineral specimens to your collection at bargain basement prices. If you have any questions regarding the specimens, please e-mail or call.

Thanks again!

Kevin
