As many of you know, we have been having "server problems" during the past several days. We are now assured that these problems have been resolved, and that you should be able to view all of the new galleries without issue. We apologize for any inconvenience that you have experienced with the website. We hope that you will again take a look at the great new offerings!

Do not forget that the auctions close Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. Eastern Standard time. Some specimens of outstanding quality are on offer at bargain starting prices.
