

David Barthelmy

From: website@greensideminerals.com
Sent: Sunday, November 08, 2009 10:30 AM
To: dbarthelmy@webmineral.com
Subject: Greenside Minerals - New Specimens

Hi,

Our first update of the Autumn consists of 16 Brandberg quartz crystals. Once again we have selected only those crystals that are either very good or perfect quality. This will be our last Brandberg update. Included are water-clear, smoky and amethyst points. Many have fluid inclusions and all are, typical, off-matrix.

We have also just launched our new website - MinSearch. It can be found here: www.minsearch.org

MinSearch is a custom search engine based on Google's search technology. But, when you search for a mineral using MinSearch only websites that are dedicated to selling mineral specimens are included in the results. This means the results will be much more relevant than a standard Google search. We built the site for our own needs but we think others will find it useful too. We are constantly refining MinSearch so it should become even more useful in the future.

Regards,

Gary Atkinson
(Greenside Minerals - www.greensideminerals.com)