John Betts - Fine Minerals Summer Update

Greetings from Maine!

Many have inquired about the lack of my weekly mineral updates.

Yes, I am still alive and kicking. But I am taking the summer off this year.

My wife and I stayed in New York City during the Covid-19 peak waves of March and December 2020 running my website as normal. We were in the heart of one of the most populated cities during the worst of the pandemic.

We thought we needed a break this summer.

So we are at our cottage in Maine where I am working on home projects and spending my free time bicycling, hiking, kayaking, and mushroom foraging. And occasionally acquiring new minerals for my site.

The weekly mineral updates will return to my web site in September sometime. We have not picked a date yet.

In the meantime, my site is still operating and I am still shipping packages (though with occasional delays).

I hope you are enjoying your summer too.

See you in September!

Sincerely,

John Betts, owner
